

“This is my message of hope to women and men diagnosed with breast cancer. With my paintings, centered on expression of feelings and emotions, I like to share my experience in the healing of this illness.”

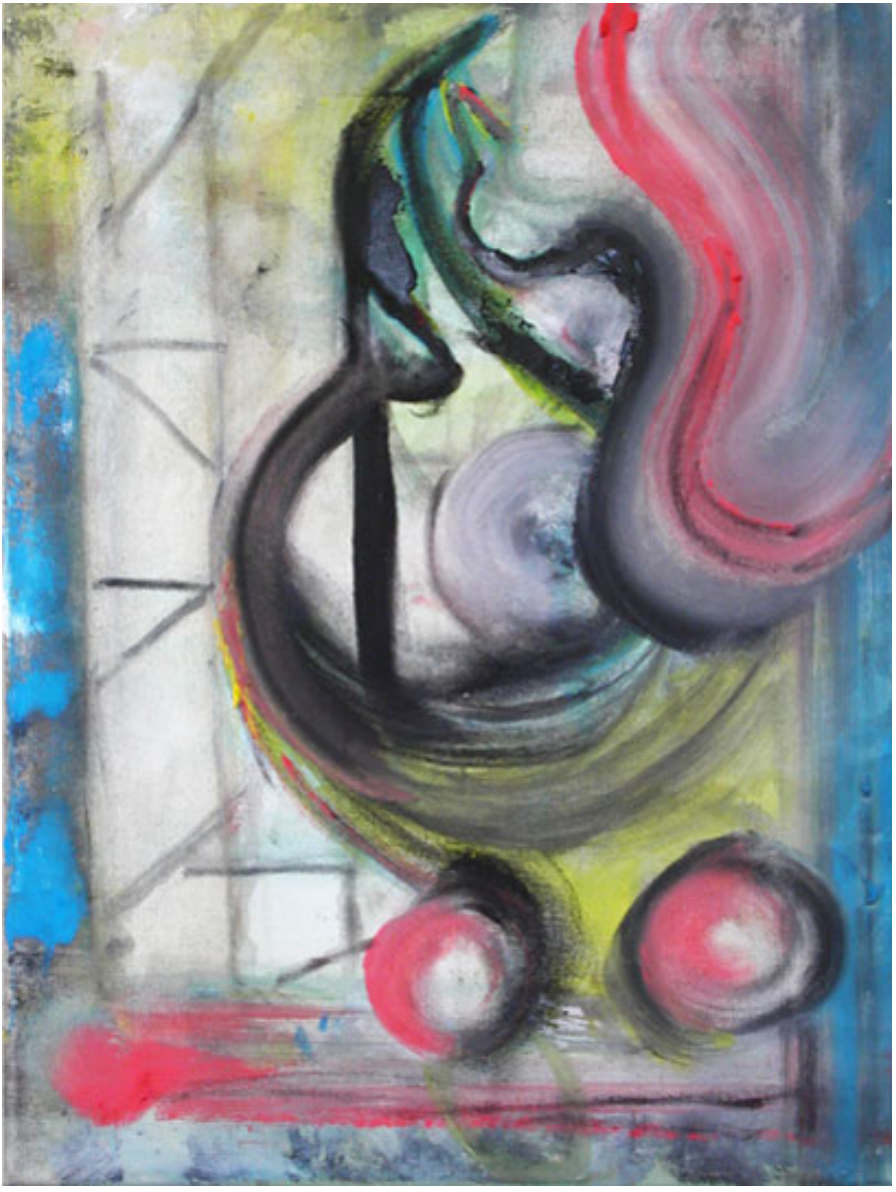

Shirley Bianca

In 2002, after my breast cancer treatment, I started experiments with colours and shapes on canvas... ‘pretty cool’ at the age of 61. For this series of paintings, dated 2006 - 2008, I used my favourite medium oil and gouache.

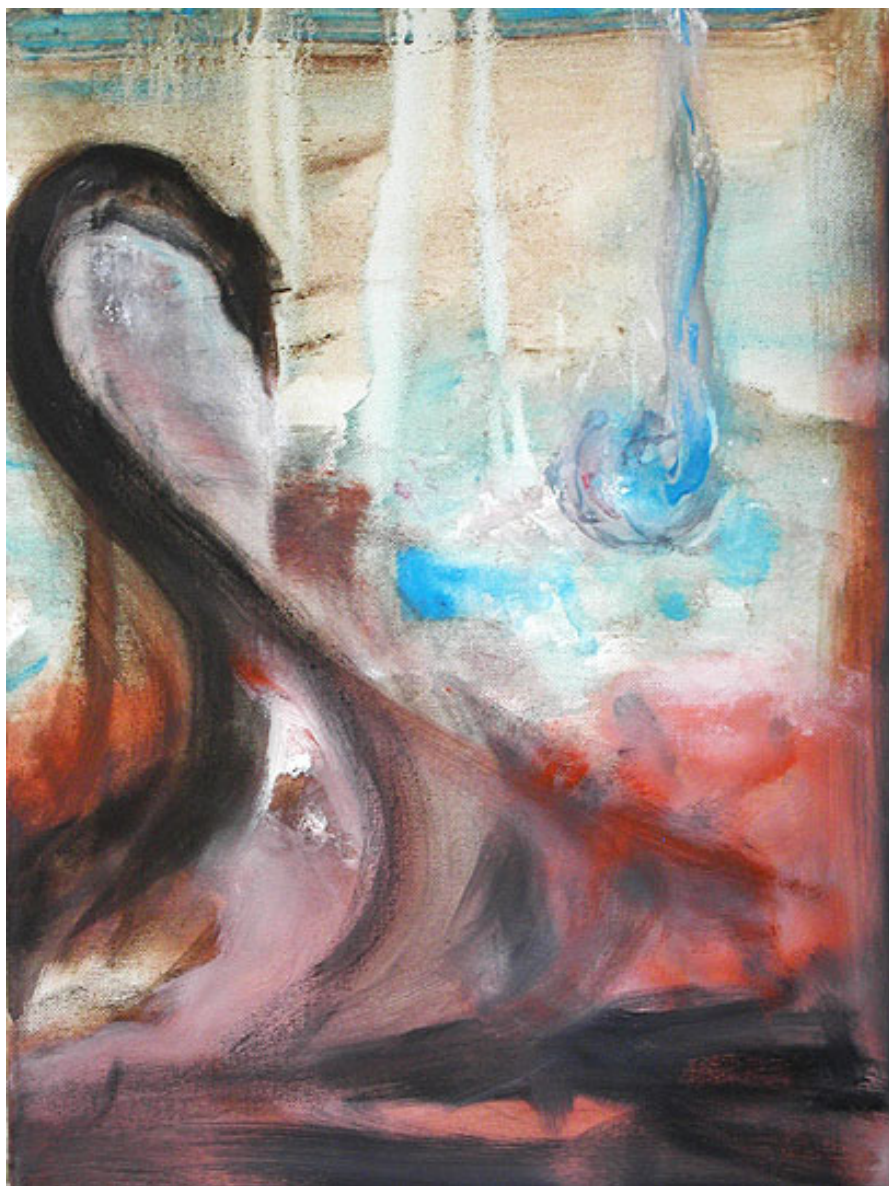

black white red

malignant

turmoil

silence

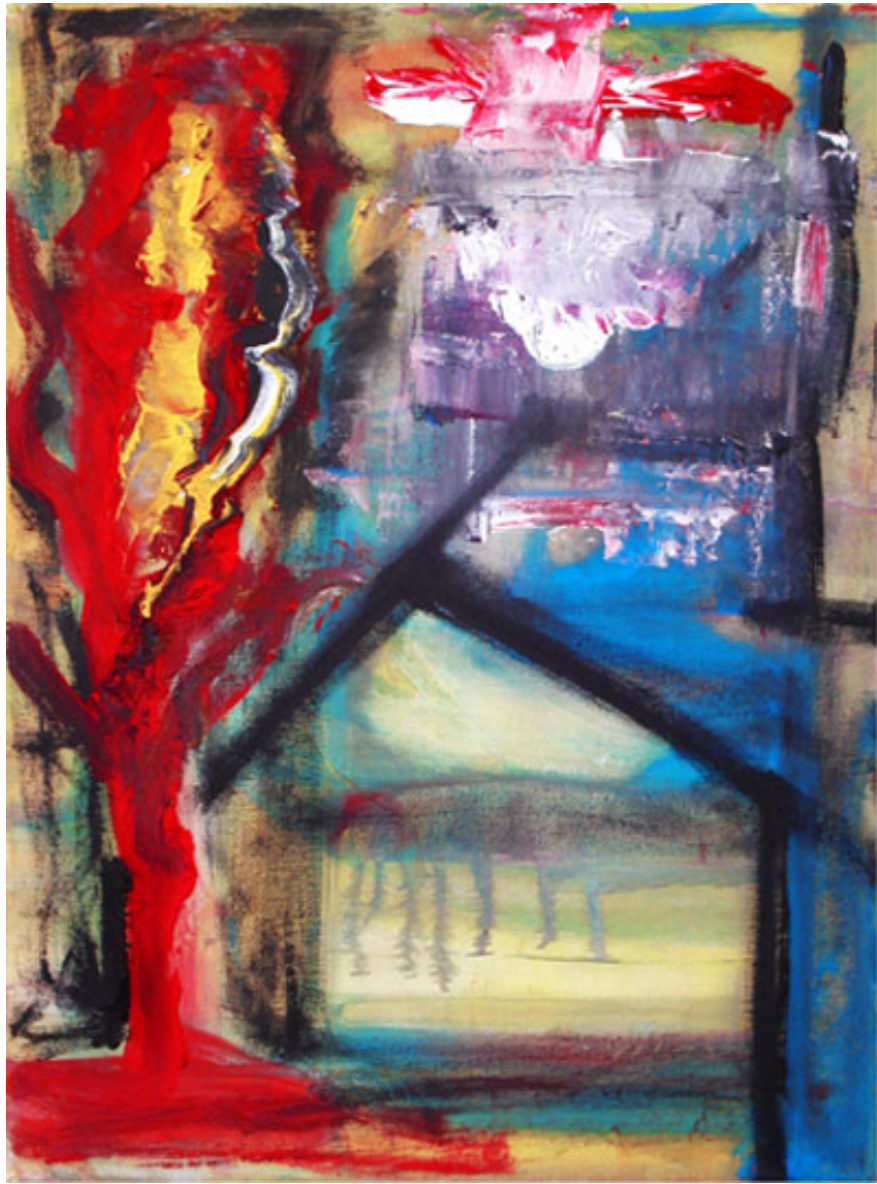

fear

quo vadis

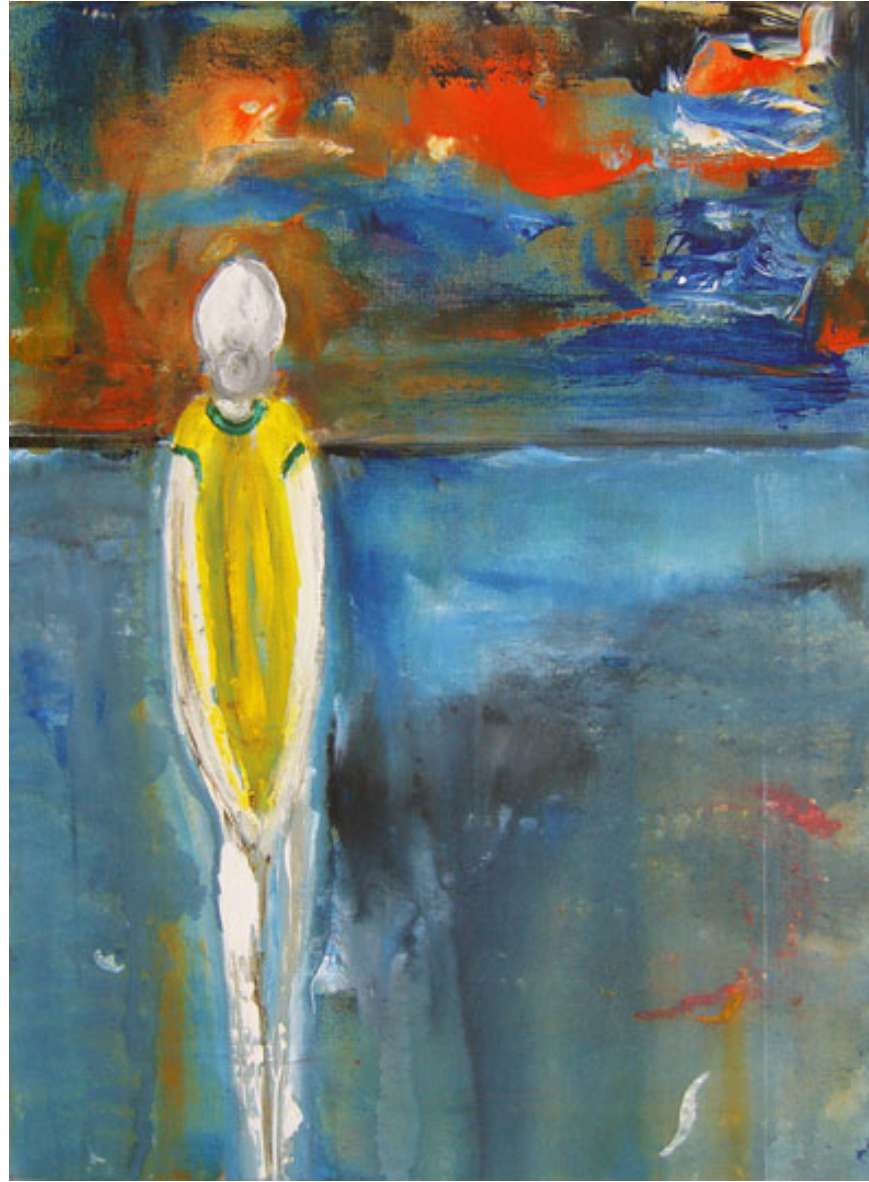

the house ... a house ...

silence

ready to fight

silence

embrace

ray of hope

relief

joy ... overjoyed

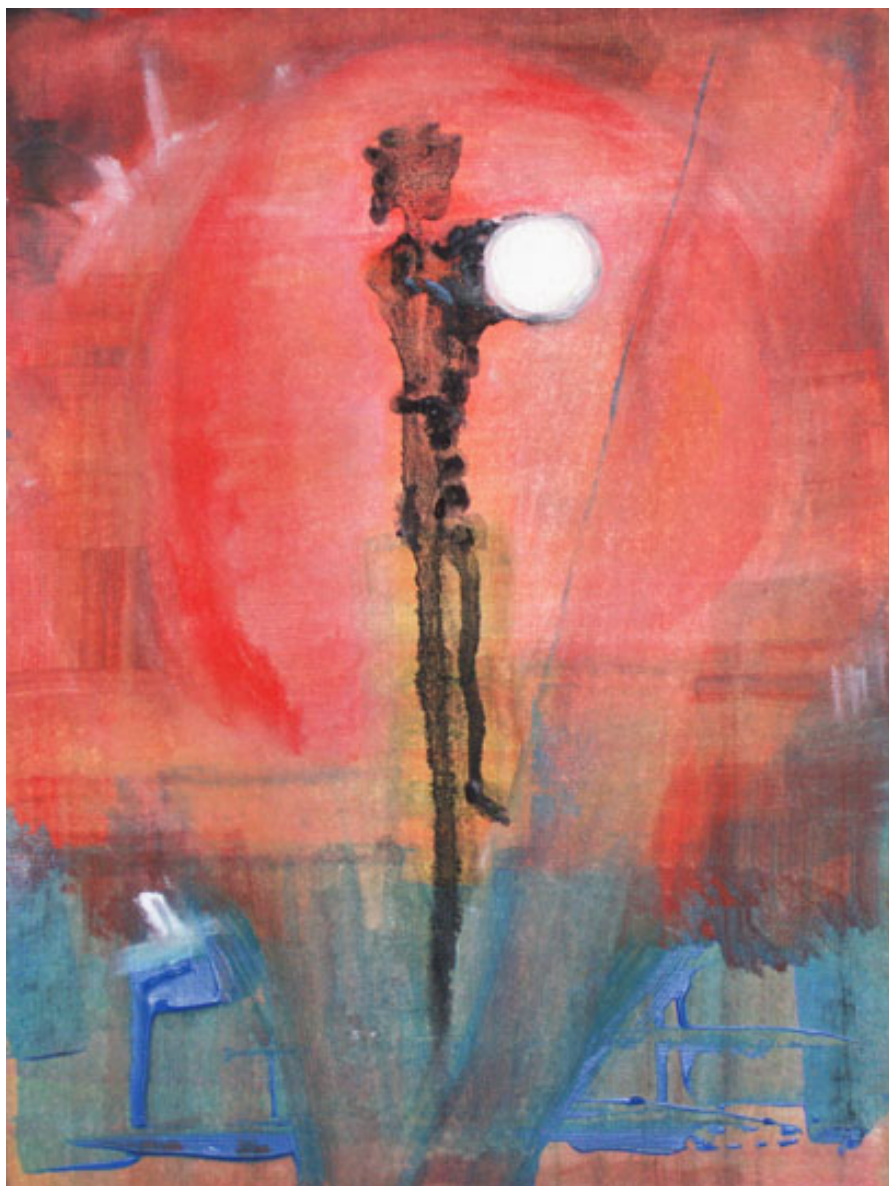

‘javotte’

‘up up and away’

‘how high is the moon’

NYC by Air

never give up...

always think you can...

Copyright 2013 Shirley B.L. Müseler

Sounds: Corinna Pregla
www.corinnapregla.com